ASTERS.

Walled in with fire on either hand
I walk the lonely wood-road through;
The maples flame above my head,
And spaces whence the wind has shed
About my feet the living red
Are filled with broken blue.
And crowding close along the way
The purple asters blossom free,
In full profusion far and wide
They fill the path on every side,
In loose confusion multiplied
To endless harmony.
The autumn wood the aster knows,
The empty nest, the wind that grieves,
The sunlight breaking through the shade,
The squirrel chattering overhead,
The timid rabbit's lighter tread
Among the rustling leaves.
And still beside the shadowy glen
She holds the color of the skies;
Along the purpling wayside steep
She hangs her fringes passing deep,
And meadows drowned in happy sleep
Are lit by starry eyes.

Selected Story.

CAPTAIN TODD'S HORSE.

"You see, Dr. Bragg," observed Captain Todd, "I want a regular clipper-built hoss. I don't want stiffness and breadth of beam so much as I want a good clean run. I want a horse to show off with, you see."
"Well, sir," said the doctor, patting on the neck of a vicious-looking animal which he held by the bridle, "if you want a smart horse, I can't recommend a better animal than this. Just look at those heels. Hi! Don't you go near 'em! As I told you, I've three horses that I want to sell; but if you want a horse that will go, this mare is just the beast for you."

"You see," said the captain, confidentially, "I don't know much about hosses. I am a sea-faring man. Followed the sea, man and boy, nigh thirty-five years. Now, I'm going to settle down on shore, an' I'm looking for a wife. I don't mind tellin' you that I'm sort o' courtin' the Widow Bunn. Now, the widow is mighty fond of a good fast hoss, and there's another feller—Sam Bliss, perhaps you know him—that's shinin' round the widow, too. Sam's got a first-rate horse, and takes the widow to ride a good deal. Now, if I don't get something better'n Sam's got, I won't stand any show, for the widow will be sure to ride most with the man that's got the fastest horse, don't you see?"

The doctor nodded affirmatively. "I see," said he, "I see. Well, I think the mare will suit you. She's a knowing beast. Just see how her ears are laid back listening. If you find her getting lazy, just touch her up with the whip, and she'll climb, I can tell you."

"Well," said the captain, "if she's all you say she is, bring her around to-night, and turn her into my pasture, and to-morrow I'll hitch her up in my new buggy and give her a trial."

The next afternoon Captain Todd ran his buggy out of the barn, and throwing a halter over his arm, summoned Bill Tyke and proceeded to the pasture, where the doctor had left the mare the previous evening.

Bill Tyke was the captain's right hand man. He had sailed with the captain all his life, and now that the captain had retired from active duty, Bill had retired with him, and undertaken to learn the art of farming. In appearance he was much like what the immortal Bunbury might have been, and he was not much the inferior of that worthy in taciturnity and oracular wisdom.

The captain and his factorum circumnavigated the pasture, and "bore down" upon the mare persuasively from the windward; but that intelligent animal saw them coming and flattened down her ears. The captain was almost within reach, then she threw up her head, changed ends and cantered away to the farther end of the field.

The captain swore a round oath, and divided forces. Bill Tyke was sent to coast cautiously around the fence while the captain lay "off and off" in the offing. But it was a game that the mare understood best. She trotted leisurely around the pasture, keeping tantalizingly out of reach, and resisting all the blandishments offered her in the shape of wheedling words and ears of corn.

The captain and Bill Tyke both fell to swearing, and followed the beast around for an hour. At last, with consummate generalship, they succeeded in cornering her, and as she tried to rush between them, both sprang at her mane.

The captain was successful, and held on like grim death; but Bill Tyke failed to secure a satisfactory grip, and was kicked heels over head into a blackberry bush, whence he emerged, torn, bleeding, and swearing worse than ever. As to the captain, it was a hundred yards before he managed to "board" the beast, but at last he found himself on her back, tearing across the pasture and bounding a foot in the air at every jump. The mare made straight for the bars, went over them, and finally came to a halt in the captain's dooryard. The captain slipped off in an exhausted condition and drove his new purchase into the barn.

The operation of harnessing was one requiring all the seamanship of both the captain and Bill Tyke to successfully perform. The uses of various straps, buckles, "belaying pins," were the subject of several animated discussions before the harness was fully adjusted. When all was complete, Bill Tyke cruised around the wagon several times, and observed that "the darned thing was right, anyhow."

"Then," said the captain, "jest put that old port anchor into the buggy, with about three fathoms of stout line, an' you git in behind. Darn ye," he continued, addressing the mare, "if ye play a trick like that agin', I'll fix ye."

Bill marched off to the tool house and returned, carrying an iron keelock and a coil of inch manila rope. To one end of this line he fastened the anchor. The other, by the captain's directions, he tied by a double hitch to the axle of the wagon.

"Now," said the captain, "jump in Bill, I'll make the old vixen hum when we get the widow in."

To the captain's delight the widow was at home, and surveyed the new turnout with admiration. The harness, she thought, looked somewhat peculiar, but she did not know much about such things. Of course she would go to ride. How kind of the captain, and what a beautiful horse.

She was not long in getting ready, for expedition at such times was one of the widow's many virtues. The captain helped her in, and the mare trotted placidly off while Bill Tyke sat behind, with his legs hanging over the "stern" of the wagon.

It was a delightful drive. The mare's head was turned away from home, and she behaved herself much better than the captain expected. The sun was setting as they turned about to go home, and as the evening shadows began to fall the captain began to grow tender. Gradually his arm slipped around the widow's waist. Promptly she removed it.

"Captain Todd," she exclaimed, "you must not; I cannot allow it."

She glanced backward at Bill Tyke, who still sat, dangling his heels over the tail-board in blissful unconsciousness.

"Oh, don't mind him," said the captain, "he don't see nothin'."

"It's not that," said the widow, blushing. "But—I suppose I ought to tell you—in fact, I don't know that I—ought to have come to ride with you at all—because—because—"

"Cause what?" asked the captain.

"Because I am engaged to be married."

"Engaged!" roared the captain. "who to?"

"To Samuel Bliss."

"Heavens and earth!" yelled the captain, giving the mare a savage cut with the whip; but he had no opportunity to say more, for the mare made a bolt as though about to jump out of her skin, and tore along the road like mad.

"Oh don't, don't!" she cried.

"Let her rip!" exclaimed the captain, more forcibly than politely. "I want to get hum—Engaged to Sam Bliss! Good Lord!"

The captain gave the mare another lash with the whip, and Bill Tyke rose up on his knees, and held on for dear life. It was getting dark rapidly. The road was full of deep holes, and the sides of the road were bordered with clumps of bushes and large rocks, over which the carriage bounced like a rubber ball. The mare had it all her own way now, for she had the bit between her teeth, and was on the dead run.

"Hold her up, cap'n; hold her up," exclaimed Bill Tyke, in evident alarm. "Port your helm, an' lay to."

"Hold your grandmother," replied the captain, savagely. "I can't hold her any more than I could a three-masted schooner in a hurricane."

The widow relieved herself of a series of piercing screams, and threw her arms around the captain's neck.

"I shall be killed," she cried. "Oh, captain, dear captain! For heaven's sake, stop the horse and let me get out!"

Capt. Todd gave a quick jerk to the reins. The bridle gave way, and both he and the widow went over backwards into the bottom of the wagon. The mare increased her speed, if that was possible, and the occupants of the vehicle devoted all their attention to keep on board the craft, which touched the ground apparently about once in fifty feet.

The captain surmised that the mare would make straight for Dr. Bragg's corn crib, and if the wagon held together long enough they might hope to come to a halt there, though as for stopping right side up, it was scarcely to be hoped for. The mare was evidently not that kind of a horse.

"We're almost to the long hill," shouted Bill Tyke.

The road thus far had been straight; but at the foot of the long hill was the lane that led to the doctor's barn, and the captain surmised that at their present rate of speed the entire party would get out about the time the mare turned the corner. The captain extricated himself from the widow's petticoates, and threw his arms around the wagon seat.

"All hands on deck!" he shouted.

"Aye, aye, sir," responded Bill Tyke.

"Let go the anchor!" screamed the captain. Bill Tyke raised the keelock in his arms and flung it overboard. It bounded along the road from side to side for a few yards, and then caught under a large rock among the bushes. The mare dashed headlong onward. The stout rope straightened in a second; there was a crash like the report of a cannon; the mare fell forward on her knees, tearing up the ground as she went, while the widow, the captain, and Bill Tyke shot up into the air about six feet, and alighted in a semi-unconscious condition amid the wreck and debris of what had been the wagon.

It was the end of Captain Todd's courtship. The wagon was an indistinguishable mass of kindling wood; the mare had broken both forelegs, and required to be shot, and the widow kept her bed for three weeks afterwards. The captain again followed the sea, for, as he often remarks to his first mate:

"The sea, Bill, is our proper spear. We know more about salin' vessels than we do about driving hosses."

"Speak for yourself." Bill always replies. "At my end of the wagon I did my dooty."

The Largest Catch on Record

RANGELEY, Me. Aug. 24th 1880.

Friend Moore.—As your "Big Fish" reporter is absent, I will take his place and report a remarkable catch on the Big Lake last Friday, 20th. Mr. J. F. Rogers, of Mansfield, Mass., with R. P. Crosby, guide, took in four hours, between one and five o'clock p. m., 17 trout, the aggregate weight of which was 52 pounds, 10 of them weighing forty-four pounds. Mr. Blanchard and Mr. Marshall, old fishermen here, say this is the most remarkable catch they ever saw. They were as follows:

One fish, 8 1-2 pounds; one, 5 1-2; one, 5; one, 4 1-2; two, 4; one, 3 1-2; three, 3; one, 2; six, 1 pound each.

Yours truly, W. G. E.

The Route to the Lakes.

But few readers of the Press are aware that a narrow gauge railroad has been opened and in successful operation between Farmington and Phillips, making the route to the lake region of Maine much easier than it has heretofore been. One can now take the noon train from Portland and reach Phillips, eighteen miles from the Rangley Lakes, at tea time. This route is so much superior to the other routes that it must attract the principal travel to this most beautiful region, which is to eventually become as famous as the lake regions of England and Switzerland.

It is really a novelty to pass over this Miniature Railroad, as it is called, to Phillips, and then take the trip through the chain of lakes known as the Rangley Lakes, by the "Miniature Line of Steamers," to the arm of the lake, returning by way of Andover or back by way of Phillips. It is a trip novel and delightful alike to tourist and sportsman. The fishing at the lakes is unusually good this season. One gentleman caught three fine trout, averaging a pound apiece, with one cast of his line, to which three flies were attached, and two at a single cast have been several times taken. If people generally knew the delights of this region of Maine, the hotels would be crowded from June to October, and many new ones would have to be built to accommodate the travel. Sportsmen of course do not want to see this, naturally enough, but a constantly increasing tide of travel is shifting in this direction, before which the sportsman must eventually give way.—Portland Press.

The following extracts from "Ithuriel's" letters we will not object to:

No small feature of the Rangley lake country, as a summer resort, are its convenience to the city and the inexpensive nature of a trip hitherward. From Boston here and back the fare is only $12.50, I believe, and one can't, to save his neck, spend much money after arriving. In June and September the hotels receive $2 a day for transient guests, and during the intervening months the rates range from $1.50 to $1, according to the length of one's stay. For the sickly or the "busted," this is a veritable paradise. It is apparent, too, that the fact enunciated above is becoming widely known. The country was never so full of visitors as it is at present. Henry Kimball's Mountain View House, is overrun with boarders, and he told me this morning that, in order to accommodate all applicants, he should be obliged to rent some cottages in the vicinity. Henry Kimball is one of the old-timers around here. Every fisherman knows him, and everybody likes him. He was not born a hotel keeper, but had hotel keeping thrust upon him when the sportsmen began coming this way. And he has kept hotel ever since, to his own profit and the complete satisfaction of his guests. From his house one sees across a narrow inlet in the upper or Rangley lake a picturesque young mountain, irreverently called Bald Head. People seldom ascend it, however, and Kimball's boy a bright youth of 8, is said to be in deadly fear of advising strangers to "go up Bald Head," lest the biblical bear story be reenacted.

The route into the Rangleys is a pleasant one, and on its own account is amply worth the expenditure of time and money. From Boston to Portland, skirting the rugged sea coast over the Eastern railway, thence to Farmington by the Maine Central, and so on, up the turf-carpeted valley of the Sandy, by means of a two-foot gauge railroad that comes to Phillips, only 20 miles from here. From that point, either by stage or private conveyance, over 20 miles of as picturesque a road as one may wish to see, the journey is particularly inviting, and finds a comfortable end at Estey's Greenvale house. At the head of the first lake, Captain Howard's little steamer with a big name (both built here by himself, when the nearest railroad was forty miles away), takes tourists down to Kimball's, or points intervening. The other lakes may be successively crossed by means of buckboard and steamers, if one does not find plenty of amusement here, without going farther. Still beyond the lakes can be seen the loftiest peaks of the White mountains, whence comes our coolest and most fragrant breezes.

The "Circle."

STRONG, ME., Aug. 19th, '80.

There was a very pleasant gathering at the residence of Capt. John Will last Wednesday evening, which we think an account of perhaps would interest the people of Strong and vicinity. It came about in this way: It was given out in one of our village churches last Sabbath, by the minister, that the "Ladies' Sewing Circle" would meet the following Wednesday with Mrs. John Will. Now, we all know from experience what a "Circle" is, but such a circle as that was, it has seldom been my lot to attend. City people know nothing about the beauty of a circle in the country.

The teams, one after another, drove to the door, depositing buxom mothers and dear old grandmothers, each and all bringing something for tea—for, mind you, they come with the intention of staying to tea; that is understood at the beginning—in fact, it is one of the rules laid down. After bonnets and shawls are laid aside, as many as can adjourn to the parlor, then out comes the sewing and knitting work, each one keeping time to her own busy chat and harmless gossip. But on this occasion there were several guests to entertain—Mrs. Kennier, from Portsmouth; Mrs. Whitney, of Rockland, and Mrs. Allen, of Industry.

Time passed swiftly, and soon our revered pastor called us together for a few words from the Holy Book, and then followed prayer—such prayer as lifted every heart to the Throne and refreshed our spiritual life. Then we were all called to receive our circle supper. Side by side, with plate in lap and cup in hand, we received and discussed the bounteous repast.

Now the young people began to gather; all the fair young ladies and gallant young men of Strong climbed "Maple Hill" and received a cordial welcome, and while many were admiring the beautiful moonlight which clothed the earth with beauty, there arose amid the quietness of nature sweet melody—"music in the air"—and suddenly before our gaze appeared the young men—of whom Strong has just cause to be proud—composing the Cornet Band. They were received with demonstrations of joy by one and all. After favoring us with that grandest of all patriotic pieces, "America," Father John stepped to the door and kindly invited them to enter the house and enjoy our social gathering. Sorry enough were we that we had not much left to offer them ever taste so good before, boys, as out of those bright tin pans? Among the boys we found our old school friend Hartwell, formerly of Strong and now of Haverhill, Mass. He, together with C. B. Will, now of Brunswick, and at present spending his vacation at the dearly loved home—talked over old school-days with vivid interest. All soon engaged in the old-fashioned games of "Copenhagen," "Bachelor and Old Maid," and others.—Time passed swiftly, and the "wee sma' hours" crept on. Soon again the hills resounded with the music of our Band, and to their spirited music, beneath the fair blue canopy, in the silvery moonlight, two by two marched the fair young people. Let us look upon that picture again and again, and as our eyes glance towards the dear old house, there are faces in the window we would never forget—our dear President of the circle and beloved Aunt Mercy; and framed in the doorway stands Father John, our respected teacher, Mr. P., and she whose voice is heard in our choir Sunday after Sunday, Mrs. N. D., and others too numerous to mention. As the last strains die away upon the air, "Good night" is said, and in a few moments silence is upon the household; but we would say, Success to the Band, and God bless our Circle. A VISITOR.

AS THE FLOWERS IN MAY.—All things have their appointed time and season, from May flowers to the sun spots which experts tell us are accountable for the meteorological topsy-turvin' of this year of grace, 1880. And prompt to its fore-ordained date, comes the new Premium List to Ehrich's Fashion Quarterly, full from end to end of tempting inducements to send your own subscription, and to persuade others to do likewise. The ordinary magazine premium list is sufficiently familiar to need no description; but in this particular publication we note several novel features. Most of the premiums are selected with direct reference to the wants of ladies. A beautiful set of curtains is offered for 18 subscribers; and the corresponding lambrequins for 15. Lace ties, chemisettes and collars, silver ware, boquet holders, platters and trimmers, brooches and bracelets, head dresses and books, are scattered through the list: until it really seems as though the publishers were seeking, not so much to extend their circulation, as to make a grand distribution of useful and pretty articles throughout the United States. And to crown all, the publishers strike boldly out in a new direction, and offer premiums for subscriptions to any magazine whatever. If the voice of the club raiser isn't heard in the land during the coming month, it will be because the spirit of enterprise has perished from among American wives. The premium list is issued by EHRLICH BROS., Eighth Avenue, New York, and will be sent free to any address, on application to the publishers.

GODEY'S LADIE'S BOOK for September is a number full of attraction for those who, returning from seaside and mountain find their pretty crisp dresses and finery of two months ago a faded, torn array of records of boating, climbing, croquet, and summer pleasure. The pages are full of suggestive matter for a novel and becoming fall wardrobe, and the illustrations are accompanied by clear descriptions. One costume for the house and one for walking are especially attractive, and the diagram gives the outlines of a stylish fall wrap very easily cut and made. Darley's picture is a home scene, and the great artist is never so attractive as in such domestic groups. It is a tender, peaceful scene that will appeal to all hearts. The literary matter is full of interest; the story of "Roslyn's Fortune," followed for months with pleasure, now draws the intense interest of every reader towards its conclusion. There is a great variety of entertaining stories and poems, and every department is fully up to its usual standard of excellence. We will furnish the PHONO. and Godey's Lady's Book for one year at the low price of $2.50 on application at this office.

We clip the following from the Troy, N. Y. Times: "Letters pour in daily, sometimes by dozens, scores and hundreds, to Dr. David Kennedy of Rondout, N. Y., in grateful acknowledgement of the great benefits received from his 'Favorite Remedy.' These are all read with care and interest by him, as they frequently illustrate the power of the medicine in some new, and, perhaps, hitherto untested phase of operation. But it is when a sufferer comes miles to tell the story of his deliverance in person, to grasp the doctor by the hand and greet him as a true and valued friend, that the interest in his case deepens and multiplies. 2t51

It will be well for those who are limited to a small garden to appropriate a portion of it to a grass plot for their fowls.

Farm & Household.

Fruit Culture.

Few persons will succeed in fruit raising whose love for fruit trees does not prompt them to graft with their own hands. If you obtain scions from a distance, they may be cut at any time in winter and placed in a box of earth in the cellar, carefully protecting them to keep out mice. If, in the Spring, your scions are neither dried or started to grow in the box, you must proceed to graft and continue as long as your scions are good, even to July. When you can get scions near home a better way is to cut them from the tree as fast as used, beginning in early Spring and ending as soon as the buds are a little swollen.

The best soil in an orchard is a piece of newly cleared hard wood land. Plant apple trees one rod apart and mulch with straw or other cheap vegetable matter for three feet from the trunk of your tree on all sides, and deep enough to kill all grass and weeds. This mulching is imperative.

To obtain pears, plums and cherries from seeds, proceed the same as with apples, with the following exceptions: All of them may be planted in the orchard eight feet instead of one rod apart. You must obtain the seeds of plums and cherries as soon as ripe, and plant them where you wish them to grow. If they get dry they will be killed. Also, plums and cherries must be grafted very early in the spring. If newly cleared land cannot be had for an orchard, other land will do; but the mulching process must be more carefully followed in. In my next I will tell you of small fruits in general.

Stones IN THE Kidneys

and BLADDER Expelled—Long Suffering of one of TROY'S best People.

A LUCKY MAN.

Mr. James Andrews, of No. 10 Marshal St. Troy, N. Y., had suffered for several years from the formation of Stones in the Kidneys and Bladder, and had doctored with many of the best Physicians without receiving any benefit. He was induced to try Dr. Kennedy's "Favorite Remedy" and the following extract from Mr. Andrews letter tells the whole story.

Troy, N. Y., April 8th, 1880.

Dr. D. Kennedy, Rondout, N. Y.:

DEAR SIR: I received your letter to-day, and you are welcome to use any part of my letter as may seem best. Had I not used the "Favorite Remedy" I should have been a great sufferer to this day. The stone that passed from me has a small piece broken off, but the large one I enclose so that you can see for yourself of what it is composed.

I am quite willing to testify under oath to all I have written in regard to my sickness and recovery, and words fail to fully express my feelings of gratitude to you for my great deliverance from so terrible a disease. With a real grateful heart I remain yours most respectfully,

JAMES A. DREWS.

Important Notice
To SUBSCRIBERS.

No Pay, No Paper.

With the commencement of Volume III (Sept. 11th), we shall ask invariably CASH IN ADVANCE for all Subscriptions.

All subscriptions in arrears at that date will be promptly dropped from our lists, and arrearages collected.

Remember all subscriptions must be paid in advance—one year, six or three months.

Remember—"No pay, No paper."

As we approach the finale of another and the second year of our existence, Phonographically speaking, we are most happy to announce a pleasant change in our columns which will take effect on the beginning of the next and third volume of our paper. It is this: What little dunning we may have in store for delinquent subscribers, through these columns, is to be done in this and next week's papers.

In No. 1, Vol. III, we begin on a cash basis—or, rather, payment in advance, for we do not always demand payment in money.

No more will our columns teem with duns, so obnoxious to those who pay as they go—and somewhat so to those who don't; it is also disagreeable to us.

We are doing a small business in publishing a dollar paper, and it is almost absolutely necessary that we should have a dollar a year for each subscription; yet we do not get it. Every man who pays his dollar, pays part of the expense for some delinquent.

We find we can do better, and know more about where we are, by demanding subscriptions in advance. We are carrying a lot of delinquents, which is not pleasant nor profitable. All who wish the paper continued to their address, can well afford a dollar for it, and that in advance. We have been here long enough to be trusted a dollar's worth. If not, we will get sureties. Those who want the paper no longer, can have it stopped at any time to which it is paid.

The figures at the head of this article represent the amount due on delinquent subscriptions to date, in sums ranging from six cents to $2.25; numbering more than three hundred people, scattered in every State in the Union. Now let us see who are "white men," and who live by cheating the printer. We expect a very happy sort of family circle among our subscribers for next year, as each of them will feel that they are reading their own paper, without a fear of a big, big Dun staring out of every other column.

Hon. Wm. P. Frye will address the citizens of Phillips and vicinity, in Phillips, Saturday afternoon, Sept. 4th.

"Old Probs" died Tuesday, and that probably accounts for the disarrangement in the weather since that event.

One of the campaign flags suspended across our streets has been having a particularly hard time to keep up a steady and becoming "wave." For a day or two it hung properly, but uncheered; then it got its back up and tried to wind itself up on the rope. It succeeded in this effort till the candidate's name at the top was hid from view, and was again contented for a season. But it soon hung its lower part upon the rope—folding itself preparatory to stealing away. Tuesday night a shower accompanied by heavy wind unmoored it from its fetters and set it free. One of its "fettlers" was a chimney on the store of A. P. Young, and this common escape for smoke and gas was leveled to the ridgepole, slid down the roof and peppered a neighbor's store window out of all shape, and depositing many specimen bricks beneath the counter. Sawyer's office is at one end of the rope, but he being out of town, escaped serious injury. "Crushed to earth shall rise again!" and the flag was again suspended. It is our opinion that the aforesaid shower and heavy wind was simply a Republican outrage!

Mr. C. T. Richardson, who has been so long and favorably known as the superintendent of Camp Kennebag, the head-quarters of the Oquossoc Angling Association, at Indian Rock, has resigned with the intention, we learn, of going west, to Leadville, where he has a son located. Mr. I. N. Packard takes his place as superintendent. Mr. Packard has been with Mr. Page at the "Elmwood," of this town, since it was opened, and has our best wishes for his success in his new position.

Not a word in the Farmington Chronicle (except the announcement) regarding the grand mass meeting to be held here Saturday, and addressed by Senator Blaine and Governor Davis! Is Farmington jealous, and will they attempt to divide the meeting by having these speakers address them in the evening? It would be an unworthy trick, and we do not believe the rumor. It would be an indignity to the distinguished speakers.

We trust all our subscribers will look at the matter at the head of the first column, on the first page, this week, and if any figures are inserted there in ink or pencil, trust they will be prompt to respond and attend to the matter. Remember our motto—"no pay, no paper!" Your subscription must be paid in advance. It isn't so much fun to publish a paper for nothing, and we are beginning to realize it. Therefore—"No pay, No paper!"

There are a great many people visiting Phillips this summer—more than ever before, and we should be pleased to mention one and all, not so much for the purpose of parading their names, as to show the large number of visitors during the season; and, besides, it is interesting to their many friends to know where they are. We cannot ascertain the names of all, unless some one assists.

Prof. Rich, in his recent address at Lambert hall, said he had that day learned an interesting fact, while speaking in the hall in Strong, now known as Balkam's hall. He was told there that, in the year 1854, members of and delegates from three parties—the Whigs, Democrats and Free Soilers—met in convention at that place and formed what is now known as the Republican party.

J. J. Woodman, Master of the National Grange, will address the Patrons of Maine at Old Orchard Beach, Aug. 31, and at Lewiston, at City Hall, on Sept. 4. Members of the order and citizens are invited to be present. Ex-Governor Dingley and Gov. Davis will be present at the meeting at Lewiston. Arrangements have been made with the Maine Central and Sandy River R. R. for one fare for the round trip. Tickets to Portland, good for one week; tickets to Lewiston, good for three days. Mr. Woodman is a fine speaker and has something to say. Put up the crowbar for a few days; take your wife and go and hear him.

T. B. HUNTER.

We see it widely quoted that a daughter of Senator Blaine recently captured the largest trout of the season, at Moosehead Lake—a three-pounder. Lud! and we haven't hardly quoted a three pounder for the season. Why will folks go up there after those little fellows, when they are catching 6, 8 and ten-pounders at Rangeley, and we hear a rumor of one weighing 15 lbs.

J. K. Osgood, prohibition candidate for Governor, has withdrawn, and will take the stump for the Republicans.

Out-of-town Items.

RANGELEY.—BY W. G. E.

The citizens of Rangeley and others interested in getting a telegraph line from Phillips, met at Burke's Hall last Tuesday evening. J. A. Burke was elected chairman; E. A. Rogers, Sec'y. The object of the meeting being stated, E. A. Rogers took the floor and read extracts from a letter received from C. D. Farnington, of the S. R. Telegraph Co., giving estimates for building the proposed line. A general discussion followed as to the feasibility of the project, etc., after which a committee of 5—E. A. Rogers, H. T. Kimball, J. R. Toothaker, Luther Nile, and W. G. Ellis, were chosen to decide on the size of shares, and whether it be advisable for the line to be independent or an extension of the S. R. Telegraph Co., and if the latter case thought best to see what arrangement could be made with that company; after which, meeting adjourned till Tuesday evening, 31st, at 7 o'clock, when the committee will report. At a meeting of the committee, in the counting room of Burke & Rogers, Wednesday evening, E. A. Rogers was elected chairman, and it was voted to make the shares twenty-five dollars each; to recommend fifteen hundred dollars as the necessary amount to be raised, and that the line, if possible, should be made an extension of the S. R. Telegraph Co.

A rumor of a 15 pound trout in Big Lake has drawn lots of fishermen to that locality within the last few days.

The Mountain Views had a moonlight excursion to Rangeley City and return Monday evening.

Thirty good-sized trout were caught by different boats on the Big Lake, Saturday.

WELD.—BY CARL.

Never before in my remembrance has there been so dry a time. Brooks are very low and some entirely dry. Crops of all kinds are suffering very much; beans are entirely played out and corn is in a critical condition. Unless there is rain soon, short crops are inevitable. Pastures are short and 'tis almost impossible to keep cattle where they belong.

Last week we had the pleasure of a trip to Rangeley in company with some twenty others, of this place. Although blueberries were not plenty, we felt well paid for our pains, and all hands voted we had a right good time.

There has been more wheat raised on burnt land this season than usual. Paul Sanborn has ten acres in one piece, and it is well filled. Others have 5 or 7, and some 8 and 9 acres.

Our hearts were gladdened last Friday morning, by a refreshing shower, and it has done great good.

Mrs. W. L. Hill, of Boston, is visiting relatives in this vicinity.

Grasshoppers are quite plenty in some localities.

Very changeable weather, cold, hot, hot, cold.

Drovers begin to put in an appearance. Not sickly for the time of year.

SALEM.—BY LUCY.

School in district No. 1 has closed. It was taught by Clara L. Dolbier, of this town. Those receiving prizes for punctuality were Sophia E. French, Bertha Landers, Lillian D. Landers, Lina Childs, Villa Childs, Charles and Arthur Crocker, and John M. Dolbier. This little Dolbier boy is six years old. He can add up a double column quite well; can name the N. E. states, their capitals and principal cities; all of their counties, the towns in Franklin county, and give the area of Maine; how many states and territories there are in the Union, the capital of the U. S.; when America was discovered, and by whom, and name all of the Presidents. Prizes for 4th and 5th classes were awarded to Susie J. Dolbier and Sophia E. French. The whole number of scholars attending was 20, average number 15.

The drought still continues—drier than dry. In some parts of this section farmers have to feed their cattle. Wells are getting low, and the brooks are drying up.

BEAN'S CORNER.—BY I. A. H.

On Sunday last the rite of baptism was administered to five persons by Rev. Mr. Purington, of Weld. Quite a crowd collected on the beautiful shore of Pease's pond to witness the solemn and impressive ceremony. At the five o'clock prayer-meeting the baptised persons were formally received into the Free Baptist Church.

The drouth is becoming very severe, and in some parts, the sweet corn crop, which is the money crop of this vicinity, bids fair to be almost a failure.

One day last week Mr. Streeter Bean was severely, but it is hoped not dangerously injured, by the falling of a scaffold in his barn on which he was making some repairs.

STRONG.—BY C. E. N.

It will be remembered that Mrs. Eliza J. Babbitt, of Strong, was recently very sick, but recovered sufficiently to move to Massachusetts with her adopted daughter. After a very few days stay she died there, and Monday night the remains were brought here. The funeral occurred Tuesday.

Rev. Mr. Hinkley, of Lynn, Mass., will preach at the Congregational church next Sabbath.

E. M. Lee will address the Democrats of Strong, Friday evening.

IDLE EXPERIMENTS.—When a man is well and sound he can afford to be indifferent to the character of all the medicine in the world. But when disease is fairly eating him up, he must do something at once and do it intelligently. Therefore do not dose yourself with a hundred things in the hope that some of them may hit the mark, but try Dr. David Kennedy's "Favorite Remedy" which hits every time. For kidney and liver troubles, piles and constipations, it is just what you want. Druggists have it, or mail one dollar to the doctor at Rondout, N. Y. 2t49

The Maine Central Railroad Company announces a delightful excursion to Farmington and Phillips, Saturday next. Both of these towns are among the pleasantest in Maine, and a trip to the latter gives the excursionist an opportunity to ride over and inspect the narrow gauge railroad, which is a novelty in itself, and the scenery along which is unsurpassed. Tickets have been placed at a low figure. —Portland Press.

Mr. Edwin Russell Morse, an attache of the Advertiser and local editor of the Sunday Times, is to speak in Franklin county for the next two weeks, in behalf of the Republican cause.

—Monday the thermometer registered 93 in the shade. Tuesday, nearly the same.

—Some ladies stopping at the Barden House, made the ascent of Mount Blue, Monday.

—John Smith recently sold a yoke of 4-year-old oxen for $145.00, girthing 7ft, 4 inches.

—J. Z. Everett is about to build a house on the corner of Seward Avenue and the Dodge road.

—A letter from Strong, too late for last week's paper, appears on the 2d page of this issue.

—A heavy shower passed over some parts of Avon and Strong, Saturday—but not a nary near here.

—We noticed forty-eight persons on the street Tuesday, just as Dan Duccello was about to "parade."

—Two trains will be run today (Saturday) to accommodate those who attend the great mass meeting.

—The bridge built by Mr. Whitney, at the Elmwood, measures forty-five feet instead of as we stated last week.

—Mrs. Geo. F. Turner, of Lewiston, has been stopping for a few weeks with her sister, Mrs. Raymond Toothaker.

—The Portland excursion noticed elsewhere, is for the regular trains, arriving here at 6:45, and stopping here over Sunday.

—We have recently seen a fine picture of C. C. Bangs, Esq., of this town, a crayon portrait, made by J. H. Quimby, of Lowell, Mass.

—Our correspondent W. says live frogs were found in digging C. A. Kimball's well, at a depth of fifteen feet, solidly imbedded in a blue marl.

—We are indebted to Silas Wing for a generous donation of grapes and apples, and an invitation to visit his attractive farm and fruit orchard.

—A "Little Lunatic" got into our box recently, addressed to the "D—J." It was returned for "better direction." You struck too cold a region, Ross.

—Some folks thought Henry Bartlett was lost upon the mountain, as he staid there five days; but he was only staying till he had eaten up the "grub" he carried!

—Persons interested enough to awake in season, were delighted to notice a splendid shower Tuesday night; but in the morning hardly a trace of it could be seen.

—Nettie, a little six year old daughter of Charles H. Bartlett of North New Portland was instantly killed by a log rolling on her in the mill yard, at New Portland, Saturday.

—The thermometer Monday and Tuesday was up in the nineties, but the shower of Tuesday night brought about a most perceptible change; Wednesday being cool and windy.

—The "Little Lunatic" is out again, more crazy than ever. The line "The Phonograph has busted," refers to the late Lewiston Phonograph. The "Lunatic" goes anywhere for 10 cts. a year.

—After the severest drouth in these parts ever known, a heavy frost in August about completes the business for the farmer, and makes his crops a sickly sight to behold.

—We notice at the depot among other freight, a Miller piano for Harvey Sampson; a Beatty organ for J. A. Burke, Esq., of Rangeley, and a large safe for John R. Toothaker, Rangeley.

—A ten-year-old said he "wished, by thunder, that band would come along." "Ain't that big talk for a small boy?" we inquired. "Rather small talk for a big editor!" he responded.

—The moonlight revellers, in ghostly attire, in the vicinity of the Avon line, will get "put in the paper" if they don't go to bed, instead of "mooning" themselves on top the veranda!

—Dr. Winter is making improvements in his already pleasant office, in Beal Block. The doctor is fast gaining a hold upon this vicinity, proving himself a worthy citizen and physician.

—If there's anything which sounds monotonous to a sensitive man's ear, it is the ever grating prattle of a man whose voice sounds like an ancient bass drum with a severe cold in both ends.

—We've been here now two years, and yet there are many of our subscribers whom we have never had the pleasure of meeting, and some from whom we do not hear often enough by considerable.

—Judging from our little garden, which in spite of the drouth, was just beginning to bear, the farmers must have lost nearly every green thing by the recent frosts. In the garden, every green thing is "busted."

—Rev. W. G. Haskell, of Lewiston, will preach at the Union church next Sunday. Subject, in the forenoon, "The End of the Commandment," afternoon, "The Religious Interpretation of Modern Thought."

—The Greenbackers of Madrid last week advertised that "Moses Hull, of Boston, would spat at Madrid, on Wednesday." This was "according to copy," and our printers "follow copy if it goes out of the window!"

—With Monday and Tuesday intensely hot days, and Tuesday night uncomfortably warm, followed Wednesday and Thursday by a temperature of 62 degrees, and a heavy frost Wednesday night, is the record for the past week.

—An eight-year-old son of Gideon Smith, of Madrid, Saturday, in the absence of his parents, was playing with a small pistol, when it was discharged, the ball entering the left knee. Dr. Winter attended him, and reports the ball could not be found.

—Our postmaster announces some changes in the office hours. Sundays the office hours are 9 to 9:30 a. m., and 12 m. to 12:30 p. m. The office will not be open Sunday evening. The train mail will not be closed hereafter till 6:45 each weekday morning, just before the train leaves.

—We should have mentioned last week that the Rev. Mr. Morrison, of New Hampshire, occupied the Universalist pulpit-forenoon and evening, and delivered two able and eloquent discourses. Their time was divided with the Congregationalists, Rev. Mr. Heath occupying the pulpit in the afternoon—Sunday, 15th.

—Some careless sportsman, Tuesday, in the edge of Avon, discharged his gun in the direction of residences on the line, and some women and children standing in the garden, were somewhat alarmed at the hearing of shot in rather too close proximity, and which were heard to rattle against a fence altogether too near. If the boys desire to shoot an "item" for us, they will please take a Moore distant family for a mark.

—Mrs. Flora A. Pratt and Walter D. Guild, the oldest daughter and son of E. A. Guild, of the Sandy River House, Phillips, arrived home from Minneapolis, Minn., last Friday. Mrs. Pratt has been there more than three years and Walter about two; both like well. Walter came home very feeble, from a sun prostration, which in a few weeks reduced him to a mere skeleton, but from which he is now quite hopelessly gaining. They will remain some weeks for a full recovery. W.

In the Franklin commissioner case, Franklin W. Patterson vs. George W. Clark, the defendant, Clark, having failed to prosecute his appeal, the full court has affirmed the decision of Judge Symonds, that the petitioner, Patterson, was lawfully elected county commissioner for Franklin county, for the term of three years, from the first day of January, 1880. The petitioner to receive costs. The final decree and order of court has been served on Mr. Clark, and the qualifying oaths of office were taken and subscribed to by Mr. Patterson on the 24th inst.

SCIENCE WINS!

Splendid Surgical Operation—Successful Result and Wonderful Recovery.

SURGICAL OPERATION.—The operation of lithotomy (removal of stones from the bladder), one of the most severe and critical operations known to the science of surgery, was successfully performed on Tuesday upon Mr. Henry H. Pitts, a merchant of this city, by Dr. David Kennedy. Several friends of the patient witnessed the operation. Mr. Pitts has suffered several years from this difficulty, but it was only a week before the operation that he was made aware of the real cause of his complaint.

RECOVERY.—Mr. Henry H. Pitts has recovered from the effects incident to the operation, the closing of the wound being completed on the 18th day. His health is good—better than it has been for years, while he is perfectly free from all those distressing symptoms so characteristic of the disease with which he suffered. Had this and similar cases used Dr. Kennedy's "Favorite Remedy" in the early stages of the complaint the formation of stone would have been prevented. "Favorite remedy" also purifies the blood, cures Constipation of the Bowels, and all those diseases and weaknesses peculiar to Females. This wonderful medicine is now for sale by all our druggists. $1. a bottle. 4148

A GREAT OFFER!

New Home Sewing Machine
For $15.00.

Regular Price, $50.

To the person paying us the largest sum of money in subscriptions for the PHONOGRAPH, before the close of the present volume (Sept. 4, '80), we will give a new "New Home" Sewing Machine, as above for $15.00 additional.

This machine has cover, extension leaf, and two drawers; has never been used. Subscribers can pay up their arrearages, and as far in advance as they choose, and compete for this offer.

A person could well afford to pay $25.00 cash for this machine—i. e., 10 new yearly subscriptions, and $15.00 cash extra, and get a $50.00 machine.

We will hold to the above offer, or as follows:

For $25.00 in new yearly subscriptions and $10.00 extra, or

For $40.00 in new yearly subscriptions and $5.00 extra, or

For $50.00 in new yearly subscriptions—nothing extra—

We will give this $50.00 Sewing Machine, and warrant it first-class.

Here is an excellent opportunity for some worthy young lady to get a sewing machine by soliciting 50 subscriptions for the PHONOGRAPH, or a less number with the proper amount of cash.

BEWARE OF ALCOHOLIC BITTERS.—Thousands have been ruined for life by drinking popular nostrums, the principal ingredient of which was alcohol. Such "bitters" are deceptive in their effects; they cause intoxication and temporary relief, while they foster the drunkard's appetite. Dr. Kennedy's "Favorite Remedy" contains no alcohol. It does not heat the blood; it cools and purifies it. Better than this even, it has cured many a raving man for drink. It will do you good, not evil, all the days of your life. All druggists sell it. The Barden House,

Phillips, Me., Samuel Farmer, Proprietor.

THE BARDEN HOUSE has for many years been the principal hotel in Phillips, and is within two minutes' walk of the depot; second door from Post office, Telegraph and Printing offices; one door from Barber shop, and in the very heart of the business portion of the village, where everything is kept to supply parties going to the Lakes, and thus affording far greater conveniences than any other hotel in town. The present proprietor, for the last seven years, claims to have come as near giving entire satisfaction to his patrons as any hotel in Maine. And now that the Telegraph and Railroad are completed from Farmington to Phillips, which at first were wholly due his own personal efforts, and having labored hard and spent much money to secure these benefits to the public, truly feels he has a claim upon the traveling public for patronage, provided he furnished everything first-class, which he is bound to do and at low prices as any similar hotel in the country.

Mr. Farmer is also proprietor of the stage route from Phillips to the Rangeley Lakes, and has contracted with the different Railroad Companies to carry all passengers holding Excursion Tickets to the Rangeley Lakes and return, and for that purpose has fitted up two very comfortable four-horse, covered, Mountain Wagons, besides other two and one-horse teams; he is prepared to take all classes through to the Lakes, either in the evening or morning, as it suits their convenience. Also kind and gentle teams, with competent guides to wait upon all who stop in Phillips to rusticate or fish the trout-brooks.

Parties wanting private teams to go through to the Lakes, will find it to their advantage to secure them of Mr. Farmer, as he has means of taking them back free of expense.
